What Career Counseling is . . .
• A process that everyone goes through at a different pace.
• A plan to identify your strengths and interests.
• A free resource available to you as an MSU Billings student.

What Career Counseling isn’t . . .
• Simply taking “tests or assessments” that will “tell you what to do.”
• One size fits all. You and your counselor will determine what plan fits your needs.
• An “expert” telling you what to major in or what career to pursue.
• Choosing classes to fulfill your degree requirements.

How can I help myself during the career counseling process?
Career counseling will be most successful when you commit to the process by:
• Attending all appointments.
• Being open about issues that are relevant to your career concerns.
• Conducting career research and completing career-related tasks.
• Giving honest feedback about what is helpful and what is not.

Other common questions
